EXPERT CLAIMS:

NFLD. Fires Devastation Could Have Been Halted

GANDER, Nfld. (CP)—Larry Rout, a man whose business is flying an airplane into the face of forest fires, Sunday called the destruction in Newfoundland "a needless waste of resources."

"There's no reason why fires of this kind ever should happen again. The waterbombers, with proper ground support, should have controlled any of the fires here,"

The 46-year-old pilot, on loan from the Quebec forestry department, pilots the most potent firefighting weapon in the province today—a Canso flying boat fitted with special waterbombling equipment which dumps 600 gallons of water in one shot.

The craft has been in the air from dawn till dusk dropping an average of 315 tons of water a day on fires that range 200 miles from Gander Bay in the north to the Burin Peninsula in the south.

Although waterbombling will only extinguish the smaller fires, its value is in slowing down larger advancing blazes so they can be approached by firefighters on the ground.

For maximum effectiveness the plane must fly at tree-top level and go through the dense smoke screen that shoots ahead of the flames. The water is wasted if poured over intense heat that will evaporate it or if it is dumped on areas where it will be soaked up before the fire reaches it.

Once the hatches are opened to release the cargo of water from 300 - gallon tanks under each wing, the pilot does a hairpin turn up and away from the centre of heat. Mr. Rout demonstrated the technique on a small fire four miles west of Swift Current Sunday.

In 12 minutes he dropped 1,200 gallons and put out a hill-top fire, where normal pump supplies would have taken several hours.

The tanks are filled by lowering hydraulic snorkels into the water while the plane is still moving.

"If every province had a few of these, we could pool them in times of fire emergency and stop massive fires like this one before they get moving," says Mr. Rout.

At Gleneagles, the Scottish resort where the prime minister is on vacation.

To a question about Berlin he replied: "I think it is all got up by the press. Nobody is going to fight about it."

Asks the right-wing Daily Express: "Does Mr. Macmillan really know what is going on in Berlin?"

"Is Mr. Macmillan living in the same world as other people?" the pro-Labor Daily Mirror asks. "Everybody else knows there is a Berlin crisis."

The pro-Labor Daily Herald says Macmillan was right in refusing to be an alarmist but adds:

"Coolness is no substitute for leadership. And what is now needed is a positive move to bring about negotiations with the Russians."

The Daily Mail, Conservative, says Macmillan's "unflappable newspaper men on the 18th hole" can be carried too far.

Fleet Street's Ire Up At Macmillan Comment

LONDON (AP) — Britain's morning newspapers boiled today at Prime Minister Macmillan's golf course dismissal of the Berlin crisis as something "got up by the press."

The editors' ire was little mollified by a press conference Sunday at which Macmillan said the Berlin situation is "serious and there is a danger arising from rash and provocative actions such as have recently been taken in East Berlin."

Macmillan said he and Lord Home, his foreign secretary, believe that East-West negotiations on Berlin and Germany should take place but to be effective, "these must be held in the right atmosphere and at the right time."

IMPROMPTU CHAT

Macmillan threw out the remark that annoyed the editors during an impromptu chat with newspaper men on the 18th hole.

'New Proposals By U.S. To Ban Nuclear Tests Brushed Aside By Russia'

GENEVA (Reuters) — The United States put forward new proposals today aimed at reaching agreement with Russia on banning nuclear tests but they were brushed aside by chief Soviet delegate Semyon Tsarapkin.

Chief U.S. delegate Arthur Dean offered to negotiate at once on the possibility of including all tests — including those difficult to detect — in a test ban treaty.

But Tsarapkin brusquely replied with the previous Russian demand that nuclear test ban should form part of the whole general question of disarmament.

He charged that the West wanted the control system only in order to establish a far-reaching spy network in the Soviet Union.

"We are not inclined to bow to the Western demands for controls without disarmament," he said.

REACTION 'CHILDISH'

Chief British delegate David Ormsby-Gore described Tsarapkin's reaction as "preposterous and childish."

Dean told the conference the U.S. is willing to re-examine the scientific aspects of the entire system for controlling a test ban.

SMILE

"For the last time," shouted the sergeant. "I asked you a simple question. What is a fortification?"

The recruits remained silent.

In desperation the sergeant glared at what he thought was the most intelligent-looking man and demanded an answer.

"A fortification," replied the recruit, "is two twentification."

Germans Capture Hearts

CASTLE MERTON, Wales (AP) — The first Germans to soldier in Britain already have attained an important personal objective—capturing the hearts of hundreds of British girls.

Feminine fancy took strongly to the grey uniformed troops when they made their first outing in the town of Pembroke Saturday.

The warmth of their welcome brought a mild shock to the youthful soldiers of the West German 84th Panzer Battalion who came here for tank training on a remote Welsh range.

The 51 - strong advance party arrived here Friday with clear forewarning that they could expect hostile demonstrations from sections of the British public that objected to receiving the armed forces of their former enemies in two world wars.

PROTESTS FIZZLE

Attempts to stage protest demonstrations fizzled out amid scenes of wild enthusiasm when a group of 10 soldiers made a semi - official appearance in Pembroke Saturday afternoon.

A few members of an organization known as the Campaign Committee Against German Troops in Wales glumly distributed leaflets while crowds of giggling girls surged past them to get near the troops.

Men and women milled around in the roadway and waved from windows as the Germans walked by.

Soon, the astonished soldiers were besieged by girls and small boys demanding their signatures on books, scraps of paper, parcels and, in one case, on the top of a child's white sailor hat.

One group of 10- and 11-year-old girls clustered around demanding signatures on their bare arms.

"Amazing," said a British Army captain who came along to take care of liaison. "I have been asked for my autograph, too, and one small boy demanded to see my Iron Cross."

Quick Congo Move Disarms White Officers

ELISABETHVILLE (Reuters) The United Nations moved swiftly with Katanga government approval today to disarm European officers serving with the armed forces of this breakaway Congo province.

UN troops occupied strategic centres throughout Katanga and swooped down on the headquarters of the Katanga gendarmerie to arrest the European officers.

President Moise Tshombe of Katanga said his government agreed to the operation and called on the population to stay "calm and dignified."

He said the UN gave written assurances that the Katanga armed forces—apart from the white officers—would not be disarmed and that the move was not intended to clear the way for the entry of central government troops into Katanga.

The president repeated, however, that his province had a right to determine its own future independent of the central government. He said that "nobody can wish the one region in the Congo which is still orderly to fall into anarchy and chaos."

OCCUPY KEY POINTS

Irish, Indian and Swedish troops carried out the operation swiftly at dawn, taking over such key installations as the central post office, the radio station and the airport.

A mercy flight took the girl to the coast to be near specialists.

Brazil's President-To-Be (Or Not-To-Be) Waits On

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Santos announced plans to walk out tonight.

Marshal Henrique Teixeira Lott, former war minister, five army colonels and a major were detained by military authorities. Another major was being sought.

Marshal Lott, Goulart's running mate who was defeated for president by Quadros at the last national election, was picked up at his apartment after issuing an explosive statement in which he declared Gen. Denys planned Goulart's arrest if he returned to Brazil. Lott called on the people to abide by the constitution.

Officials promptly suspended negotiations of restoring foreign relations with the Soviet Union when Quadros resigned.

Police and troops patrolled strategic points throughout the country, apparently determined to prevent any disorder. But there was little open display of force.

Censorship was imposed on outgoing news dispatches and on local newspapers and radio stations.

GENERAL STRIKE

Labor unions in Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo, the nations second city, declared a general strike in support of Goulart, but so far there has been little interruption in business. Labor leaders at the coffee port of the injured man to await rescue.

They had sleeping bags and food taken to them in a rescue attempt late Sunday afternoon by a small party of forest rangers who said rescue could not be made from the ground.

Clouds swirled around the mountain and temperatures fell below freezing Sunday night. The men were unable to build a fire since no wood was available above the tree line.

Wooden planks and poles to build the platform—a feat described by one ranger as "unbelievable"—were being hauled 2,000 feet up the steep slope.

Word of the pair's predicament near the summit of the mountain reached forest rangers when four other members of the climbing party reached their base camp.

The others were Leroy Solace, Donald Vocheiroth, Claus Hahn and Ken Broad of Calgary.

Kelowna Area Suffers Only Five 'Not Serious' Blazes

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP) — Forests in the central British Columbia Kamloops forest district exploded in flames during the weekend as lightning struck the dry area 81 times in three days.

Five of these fires are burning in the Kelowna area of the forest district, but none of these is reported serious.

Men and equipment Sunday were rushed into service after 20 new blazes brought the Kamloops area total to 171, double the number burning any other forest district.

Light showers sprinkled the northern Prince Rupert and Prince George districts giving firefighters their first break in weeks.

The hot spot in the Kamloops district was the Horsety country, 130 miles north of Kamloops.

District forester W. C. Phillips said Sunday "The whole of the Horsety Lake country is on fire."

The Grove blaze which covers 45,000 acres just southeast of Prince George has 68 miles of guard and 11 forestry camps around it. The 30,000-acre Tsus blaze to the east has 32 miles of guards and eight camps. Both are burning in spruce and pine stands.

Showers Sunday gave firefighters a chance to gain ground on the 55 blazes in the Prince Rupert district.

The two big blazes there are the Eliduk which covers 30,000 acres 100 miles south of Burns Lake and the Pall blaze, which covers 25,000 acres 30 miles west of Burns Lake.

FIRE MERGE

Within hours, three lightning strikes joined forces and, pushed by strong winds, covered 30,000 acres of valuable fir and spruce. About 170 men were battling the blaze.

About 10 miles to the north of Horsety River, the Vert fire covers 20,000 acres. Ten miles

Sprinkling Of Rain Aids Fire Control 'In 10 Days'

GANDER, Nfld. (CP) — Newfoundland's forest fires got another sprinkling of rain today and chief forester Ed Ralph estimated that if present weather conditions continue all the province's fires will be out in 10 days.

He said that although there still was danger, all the fires were under control early today, smouldering in the wake of nearly an inch of rain during the weekend.

A 35-mile-an - hour southeast wind was driving today's showers. Forestry people said this was good. It would shake the rain from the trees and drive it into the ground.

Carmville on the northeast coast now is the only community evacuated. Two hundred Carmville residents are staying here, but unless the fires spring up again, they soon will return home.

More than 5,000 people are estimated to have left their homes in several Newfoundland communities since the fires began nearly three months ago.

Baby-Faced Boy Admits Rifle Riot

CALDWELL, Idaho (AP)—A baby-faced farm boy admits he was the mystery sniper who terrorized his own family and critically wounded two policemen. But he couldn't say exactly why.

The youth, Robert Oliver Miller, 13, seemed stunned to learn that police chief Keith Judd of Caldwell lay paralyzed in hospital today with a 22-calibre slug in his spine at the base of the neck. Doctors said Judd may never recover.

Another officer, deputy sheriff Mel Staker of Dolan, was shot in the back, but doctors said he would recover.

James R. Hoffa, who went to Caldwell in a personal attempt to quell a revolt by 4,000 members of his International Teamsters union, Sunday night declared the union must be big if it wants to deal successfully with big corporations.

Lower Prices And Lighter Trading Marks Exchange

Lower prices and lighter trading marks characterized last week's stock market while the Industrial Acceptance Corporation split and Toronto Stock Exchange cleared a record of 1.5 million shares.

IAC announced a two-for-one split Wednesday, along with a dividend increase to 50 from 45 cents per share, and promptly shot ahead $3. The stock turned over considerable volume as company officials awaited shareholder ratification at a Montreal meeting Sept. 27.

TSE president Howard D. Graham gave the Ventures group a clean slate Thursday when he said an exchange auditor found "no evidence of trading in shares of any of these companies by any of their officers or directors, or others in positions of trust."

Ventures was suspended from trading for four days earlier this month after a company official denied merger rumors a scant 96 hours before the actual union with Falconbridge took effect. The auditor did find two exceptions which were termed "immaterial". One director sold 300 shares of Falconbridge and another bought 350 of McIntyre.

Porcupine, Ventures, chopped $3.75 this week while Falconbridge lost $3.25.

Presence Of Forest Fires Felt Everywhere In NFLD.

GACDER, Nfld. (CP)—The miles south of here, smoke was so heavy last week that automatic street lighting went on at 3:30 one afternoon and cars drove with headlights on.

Deputy Resources Minister Stuart Peters says the fires have set the province "back to the time of the glaciers."

E. B. Ralph, chief forester for the province, directs field operations from a headquarters in a Gander hotel.

Even in places far removed from the centre of this rash of forest fires, the smog gives witness to an inferno that has destroyed much of Newfoundland's timber wealth.

In St. John's, more than 100 employees and varying numbers of civilian firefighters in an effort to conquer the fires.

Sleeping only about three or four hours a night, the 32-year-old forester has fought a losing battle.

"We didn't start fighting fires until two weeks ago," he said, adding that most of the work in the last three months has consisted of protecting threatened communities.

"We haven't been able to get back into the woods where we should be."

With 1,200 soldiers, on loan from the federal government, he plans dividing the stricken areas into fronts over which he has control through radio communications.

He is confident a disciplined force of men will eventually win the fight.

For three months he has commanded a team of 140 forestry employees and varying numbers

on BY-LAW 2278

This By-Law Deserves Your Active Support For the Following Reasons:

The bylaw will enable the city to consolidate the electrical distribution system by absorbing that portion now within the city through boundary extension.

This step was thoroughly discussed during the boundary extension debate and by that vote received the tacit approval of the ratepayers. Its passing will bring to a logical conclusion this particular aspect of extending the city's boundaries.

The purchase price was carefully considered and is believed to be completely fair to all parties. The price and the bylaw have been approved by both the provincial Department of Municipal Affairs and the Public Utilities Commission.

This bylaw will cost the ratepayers of the old system nothing. Over a 15-year period both the principal and interest will be earned by the absorbed portion of the distribution system. After that period the profit earned by this portion of the system will go into the city's general revenue and assist in reducing the tax mill rate. The city electrical system in 1960 earned $228,000, which in effect meant a reduction in the city tax rate of 10.28 mills.

During the boundary extension discussions it was freely said that the electrical consumers served at that time by West Kootenay would see a slight increase in electrical rates but this would be more than offset by lower water rates, fire protection and lower insurance rates, better services of all kinds, and, in the case of the residents of Glenmore, a stabilization in the tax rate.

The passing of the bylaw will not adversely affect the ratepayers of the whole city. On the contrary, it can only benefit all citizens through the consolidation of the electrical distribution system serving the city and the eventual increase in the general revenues of the city, thereby maintaining a low and stabilized tax rate.

It is imperative for the welfare of the city that this bylaw receive the approval of sixty percent of the voters.

NO UNIFORM FOR A TRAFFIC COP

NEWMARKET, Ont. (CP) A 48-year-old Newmarket man who "conducted traffic" on the main street here while wearing only a pair of gray socks was convicted in court today of committing an indecent act.

Benjamin Cox explained to police who picked him up: "I'm looking for my wife."

Constable Clare Penrose escorted him home while pedestrians cheered and shouted "more."

"I understand," said Cox's lawyer Joseph Dales, "that you padded his behind all the way upstairs."

"I certainly did not," said the constable, who told the court Cox had been drinking but did not appear to be drunk.

Cox testified he had been sleeping before the incident. "All I ever wear in bed is a pair of socks and I guess I got out of bed half asleep," he said.

"Daley has no bad instincts," his lawyer said. "The worst punishment you could give is to make him walk down the street in the same site—but sober."

"The Court of Appeal would frown on that," commented Magistrate O. S. Hollinrake. He gave Cox a suspended sentence of six months.

TAKE IT FROM HERE

By ERIC GREEN
Courier Staff Writer

In an immortal idiom, time and space joined with British Columbia's beauty on a weekend trip that added a thousand miles to my old jalopy, and spoke—"each part of our province has its own distinctive beauty."

When the Lake Poets of the mid-nineteenth century spoke in lyric terms about their natural haunts, they obviously hadn't seen B.C.'s lakes. They hadn't seen its rivers, its peaks; semi-arid tanned Kamloops hills; Cariboo's mutable greens and golds; and hadn't looked out over White Rock's Semiahmoo Bay.

I did. I saw almost all the "Central Okanagan on a Friday Evening."

Then drove past fruit stands, seeing the big "K" on the mountain at Keremeos (meeting of the winds), drove the Hope-Princeton with its lush green and shocking fire-stricken mountains.

I saw the lights of Hope. And wondered how it was named. Reflectively, it could easily have been named by someone belting down the churning Fraser or some staggering prospector who came across a mountain and saw the Fraser Valley burgeoning wide and verdant and had hope in his heart that at last he was out of it.

It was speculation. I sure didn't speculate on my emotions after breaking from the mountain bonds into a freeway. I didn't feel free.

Traffic is a net, and there was plenty of it. I felt like a fish in a sluice box.

There was compensation. A star-struck sky with a fat, noisome moon who winked at me at about 9:30.

The phenomenon of our hasty travel is easily on a par with the eclipse phenomenon, but because it is here all the time, we have a tendency to accept it unquestioningly.

VANCOUVER LIGHTS
Approaching New Westminster I began to understand why Canadian poet Earle Birney, a UBC professor, wrote "Vancouver Lights." I saw a thousand eyes blinking at the sky in eternal surprise at themselves.

There seems to be such a superfluity of beauty in this province, any mention of it has to be general. In terms of regions and areas, too. Any given area is again heaped in visionary richness.

British Columbia is a present bound in a black and gray ribbon of highway; to be delivered and opened upon receipt, and deigned emotionally. You take it as you get it. Discovery should be slow, over a long period of time. And savored.

This is the way true love perpetuates its reward. By collecting memories and setting up a museum in an accessible region of mind. They say a true British Columbian always comes back; maybe this is so because memories are profoundly easy to recover.

Saturday, seagulls plaintively winged their way in and out of twilight. Backdrops were veiled under many flags, and Pacific ocean a mirror of the blue sky.

Five Fires, Five Fighters

The Kelowna office of the B.C. Forest Service reports that five small fires are burning in the Kelowna area of the Kamloops Forest District.

The fires, all under control, are located at: the head of Bald Range Creek; one south of Nahon, across from Okanagan Centre; the west side of McDougall Creek; another just west of Postill Lake, and at the old Glenmore municipal dump. All fires except the dump blaze were started by lightning.

Five men, one to a fire, are employed altogether on the blazes.

Bursary Winners Named

Branch 26 (Kelowna) of the Royal Canadian Legion today made known the names of the Dave Addy Bursary Winners. The awards are of $100 each.

Winners are Wayne Bartle, of George Pringle High in Westbank; Sheila Vetter of Okanagan High, and Don Riemer of Kelowna High.

The awards will be presented early next week at the schools. These awards bring to $1,500 the amount to be presented by the Kelowna branch of the Legion.

The Dave Addy Bursary Fund works on a $50-a-basis; Mr. Addy who is an amputee, contributes half the amount of a bursary given in his name, and the Legion matches it.

Refreshed Bennett Fires Verbal Guns At Perrault

By JAMES K. NESBITT
(Special to The Daily Courier)

Premier Bennett, refreshed from a holiday in his native New Brunswick, proud of the new B.C. office he opened in San Francisco, and more delighted than ever that he took over the B.C. Electric, gave a lively press conference in his office in the legislature buildings.

The premier mused that it's strange that the entire Legislature of 52 members voted for the B.C. Electric take-over, yet now, some of them, oppositionists — are running around criticizing many details of the big deal. These people, said the premier, were afraid to speak out in the House, and now seek votes by misrepresenting facts.

He particularly hit out at Liberal Leader Ray Perrault. "This Liberal fellow — what his name?" asked the premier, as if he didn't know. Yes, yes, that's him — this fellow Perrault — I wouldn't hire him to run a peanut stand. His approach to business — it's hopeless. It's no wonder his Liberal party is out of business. He's worse than that fellow Laing, and he was bad enough — he's an awful gloomy fellow, this Perrault — even worse than Laing."

Mr. Bennett polio-pooled talk that the B.C. Electric take-over is a threat to personal liberty. "This gives all the people the liberty to have a job," said the premier, and that was that. No, he's not the least worried about the criticism that has bobbed up, and is fairly vocal and threatening. He feels sure everyone in due course will bow down low before him, offer thanks to him and call him a some kind of saviour.

I'll let history say who is right, and who is wrong," said the premier, positive that history, he hopes, will say he was a great fellow, a patriot, a statesman, the finest premier in the history of B.C., bar none.

But he feigned suitable modesty, too, when he said: "We're

Distillery Closedown A Rumor

A rumor going the rounds in Kelowna over the weekend has proven to be just that.

The rumor was that Orchard Distilleries, one of Kelowna's newest industries, was closing down. It isn't.

Jim Donald, manager of the plant, admits that there has been a "slowdown", however. "It is true that a number of people have been laid off," he said. "But there is no truth to the rumor that we are closing down. We just simply won't be doing much this season."

Orchard Distilleries received its licence from the city and higher governments in February and began building a new structure in Kelowna's north end in the spring. They were to have begun distilling with the latter part of this year's plum crop.

MARY ACKLAND SCORES 'FIRST' WITH TWO GOLD MEDAL WINS

Two 15-year-old Calgary girls, Mary Ackland and Anne Norton, passed over 127 tests in figure skating and dance skating at Kelowna Memorial Arena, with Miss Ackland copping two gold medals, a school first.

Capping their achievements were two gold medals for figures, highest awards of the figure skating world. They have been students for the past three years at the Kelowna figure skating school, and are students of Miss Winnie Silverthorne, who is a professional figure skating teacher at the Glencoe Club in Calgary, as well as director of the professional staff at the Kelowna summer school.

Mary Ackland also won her gold dance medal, as did Peggy Cummings of Kamloops. Peggy won her sixth test and seven girls won their fifth test.

Yvette Killeen of Nanaimo won her gold medal in dance skating, as did Carole McMillan and Margaret Head. Carole comes from Edmonton and Margaret from Saskatoon.

Officials of the school say it is the most successful school ever held.

Congratulations were given to the professional staff for the high percentage of passing skaters.

Complete results of the skating will appear in Tuesday's edition of The Daily Courier.

Reeves, Mayors Ask Meet

Representatives of 15 organized Okanagan and Kootenay Valley municipalities served by the West Kootenay Power and Light Company are seeking an audience with Premier Bennett and his cabinet in connection with possible take-over of the utility by the government.

They hope to present a resolution opposing the proposed government take-over on the ground that it could bring higher power rates and loss of tax revenues for the areas concerned.

The resolution was formulated at meeting of Kootenay-Okanagan Reeves and mayors here Thursday. It now is being circulated to each of the 15 municipalities for local endorsement. Each will be invited to send a representative to Victoria.

West Kootenay, owned by the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company, serves all the South Okanagan and Similkameen north to Winfield and west to Princeton and Kootenay communities as far east as Creston and the boundary area.

When the government expropriated the giant B.C. Electric public utility Aug. 1, Premier Bennett indicated his government was planning to take over West Kootenay as well as soon as plans for the move could be finalized.

City Widow Dies At 66

Mrs. Henry Charles LePargneaux of 2343 Pandosy Street, died at her home Saturday. She was 66 years old.

Born Beatrice Ethel Auger Leach at Maple Creek, Sask., she lived at Maple Creek, attended Regina College and worked at Assiniboia prior to her marriage to Henry Charles LePargneaux at Medicine Hat in February '39.

In 1922 they moved to Kelowna where they were engaged in the fruit business at the Kelowna and local active part in community life at Rutland.

In 1933 they returned to Maple Creek where they lived until 1957 when ill health caused them to return to B.C. to be with members of their family.

The body is being forwarded to Maple Creek for services and interment.

She is survived by two sons, Louis of Calgary, Gordon of Kamloops, one daughter, Marion (Mrs. A. S. Burbank) of Kelowna, nine grandchildren and one sister, Evelyn (Mrs. P. W. Doak) of Regina. She was predeceased by her husband in 1958 and sister, Florence in 1928.

To Not Vote Is A Vote Against Own Interests

On Wednesday, the ratepayers of the City of Kelowna will express their opinion on the proposed purchase by the City of the electrical distribution system of the West Kootenay Power and Light company now within the city limits as a result of the extension of the city boundaries.

In the letter to the editor column on this page Mr. M. McKenzie expresses his opinion, as he has every right to do. However, Mr. McKenzie apparently misses the whole point of the transaction.

It is quite true that the City of Kelowna in 1960 made a profit from electrical distribution of $228,000. Summerland and Penticton also distribute their electricity and made a profit. Vernon sold its system to West Canadian Hydro which was taken over by the B.C. Power Commission and there are indications now that the City of Vernon would very much indeed like to be on the same footing as the other three Okanagan municipalities.

Mr. McKenzie asks where this profit went. The answer is easy. It went into the general revenue of the city and in effect made a reduction of 10.28 mills in city taxes. It made a reduction of 10.28 mills in Mr. McKenzie's taxes in fact. Just how much that meant to him in money he can easily figure. He knows his own assessment.

The point is that had the city not been in a position to make this profit, Mr. McKenzie's taxes — and yours and mine — would have been 10.28 mills higher. It is as simple as that. Actually, because the electrical profit comes from a broader base — the electrical consumers — than does the straight city taxes (from the property owners) in all probability the city policy of making a profit from the electrical rate is one that actually saves Mr. McKenzie and all property owners money.

And it should not be forgotten, too, that despite the profit the city makes the cost of domestic electricity is lower here than it is in Vernon under the B.C. Power Commission.

The policy of making a profit from its electrical public utility is no new thing. Shortly after incorporation the city built its own power plant and when West Kootenay power became available, rather than generating its own, arranged to buy wholesale from West Kootenay. Under this arrangement, the city has not only been able to keep its rate but has also been able to earn a profit on the operation which in turn has enabled the city, through adding this profit to general revenues, to keep the property tax mill rate at an extremely low level.

Mr. McKenzie says he will not vote at all on Wednesday. That is his privilege. But that does not alter the fact that any property owner who refrains from voting and thus risking the defeat of the bylaw is actually acting quite against his own interests. He is asking, in effect, that his city taxes be increased by 10.28 mills which we are quite confident will cost him more in actual cash than will the mere pittance of profit he pays on his electrical bill.

Only One Real Danger

Democracy gives certain rights to the individual. It also gives certain responsibilities. The electoral — owners, the ratepayers, of the City of Kelowna are faced with one of these responsibilities. It is not a very onerous responsibility, however. It simply involves going into the Centennial Hall and casting a ballot on the bylaw which will enable the city council to proceed with the purchase of the West Kootenay electrical facilities which are now with in the city of Kelowna.

Bylaws are a bit of a nuisance. City council recognizes this and would like to have postponed the voting on this bylaw until December when the regular municipal elections are held. However, council's hands were tied because of the provincial municipal act, the provisions of which make it mandatory the vote be held now, or the whole matter again started from scratch with additional cost and headache.

There would seem to be no good reason — excepting summer lethargy — the bylaw should not be passed with a very substantial majority. There is no dispute about the agreed price. Indeed, this has been approved by both the department of municipal affairs and the public utilities commission. How, then, can the average man claim the price is unfair?

Nor can there be any argument about the purpose of the bylaw. Obviously it would be unreasonable and impractical to have two electrical systems distributing power within the city limits. This could only cause confusion. This is recognized and readily admitted by West Kootenay officials who quite reluctantly agreed to dispose of this very profitable segment of their distribution system.

This newspaper can see no good reason why this bylaw should not receive a majority far in excess of the sixty per cent required. In fact, it can see no good reason for even a single negative vote. In fact, in its opinion the person casting a negative vote is doing so against his own self-interest.

While above we said that we could see "no good reason" the bylaw should not be passed, we do see a reason, albeit it is not a "good" one. That reason is the old one of people not just bothering to vote. The bylaw needs a sixty per cent majority to pass. It will receive this if the majority of those who are privileged to vote get out and exercise their privilege, their responsibility. Every voter who stays at home is contributing to the defeat of the bylaw. It takes three affirmative votes out of every five votes to pass the bylaw.

City council has done everything it can to present the picture and stress the necessity of this bylaw being passed. This newspaper has endeavored to do likewise. There is no reason for any eligible voter claiming to be uninformed. Anyone who does surely is admitting he has had both ears and eyes tightly closed these past ten days.

The danger lies with the stay-at-homes—you staying at home. The picture has been presented clearly and the matter is simply in the hands of the voters, your hands. It remains now for you on Wednesday taking just five minutes to go to Centennial Hall and performing your duty as a free citizen. Fail to do so and you are denying your responsibilities; ignoring the very basic foundation of democracy.

If you have a vote—and some 5,300 of us have—go to Centennial Hall on Wednesday and cast your ballot on this bylaw. And for your own interests and the city's interests—Vote "Yes".

U.S. Navy Takes Anti-Sub Steps On Sea Frontiers

GROUP ALFA (AP)—There's one thing to keep in mind about the sea: It's a free place.

Shrimps, sharks or Soviet missile subs can all use it. The U.S. Navy presumes they all do. It's the job of this force to find out who's there and perfect ways to separate the subs from the sea life and kill them should war begin.

Beyond the three-mile limit Russian submarines are free under international law to roam at will off the North American coast. The navy assumes they do. What is it doing about them?

NOT INFALLIBLE
"We're still not infallible," said Cmdr. Frank Dunham Jr., skipper of the destroyer Convoy task force ALFA, which is constantly practicing hunter-killer operations against the two submarines attached to it that play the role of Russian submarines. "They win some and we win some," said a naval spokesman.

ALFA was organized in 1958 as a hunter-killer team operating out of Norfolk, Va. It is composed of the carrier Randolph, six destroyers, two submarines and a group of land based Neptune radar patrol planes.

Every 24 hours the Neptunes, radar-carrying Constellation and twin-engine STF "trackers" and WF-2 "tracers" scan the entire Pacific and Atlantic coasts for radar contacts of surfaced submarines or periscopes. There is also a system of surface hydrophones listening and reporting back to a command headquarters.

The Randolph, the destroyers and the subs also beam their sonar gear to detect submerged objects. Airborne radar can see many miles. Sonar under best conditions can sense up to about eight miles.

When there is a contact STFS fly over the area with M.A.D. (Magnetic Anomaly Detection) gear. M.A.D. detects any metallic object that interferes with the earth's magnetic field through a stinger-like antenna that sticks out of the tail of the aircraft. Its range is classified but it can reach as deep as any known submarine can submerge.

PINPOINT SUB
M.A.D. confirms that the sonar contact is metal and therefore not whales, the bugaboos of anti-submarine warfare. Helicopters in range then fly out in teams of three and hover about 30 feet over the water dropping sonar buoys into the water to pinpoint location of the contact.

The helicopters can all drop homing torpedoes or nuclear depth charges. Destroyers arriving on the scene can also launch weapon Alfa, a rocket fired depth charge shot over the bow and exploding on proximity; hedgehog, a barrage of small depth charges fired in a shotgun-like circular pattern, or ASROC—a depth charge that can be nuclear armed and is aimed and fused automatically from bearings of the destroyer's sonar.

That's the arsenal.

But, ALFA's commander, Rear-Admiral Earl Eastwood, still concedes "We just don't have all the answers."

His task group and the seven others that share patrol off the North American coasts can do little against missile subs other than try to contact and maintain contact with them. The sea, as mentioned, is free and until the missile submarine fires its missiles it has as much right to be below the sea as the U.S. fleet has to be on it. Once it has fired, of course, it can be sunk but by then the damage is done.

REPORT FROM THE U.K.

Little Crisis Sense On Berlin Situation

By M. McINTYRE HOOD

Special London (Eng.)

Correspondent

For The Daily Courier

LONDON — There is little sense of crisis here regarding the prospect of serious danger over Berlin. Neither in government circles nor in the public mind is there much fear that it will bring a military showdown. The holiday season is on. Grouse shooting has started. The prime minister and the foreign secretary have taken to the grouse moors. And the British tourist resorts are crowded by holiday-makers. The country is in that season of planned relaxation of which both Kaiser Bill and Adolf Hitler took advantage in planning their corps which led to world wars in 1914 and 1939.

There is some good reasoning behind the relaxed British attitude. British intelligence reports support the view that Khrushchev has no intention of stoking up the Berlin situation into a shooting war. The British government is determined not to be drawn into a military conflict over the rights of East Germans to flee to West Germany. Even if there is a revolt in East Germany it will be regarded as a domestic matter in which Britain should not become involved.

KEEPING IN TOUCH

While British government leaders are fully satisfied that negotiations can solve the Berlin problem, and are not unduly worried about the immediate future, they have not lost sight of the fact that while on holiday, they can be no complete relaxation. Mr. Macmillan is always accompanied by a special courier ready to take-off with any urgent messages. His evenings are spent at going over official messages and studying messages of importance.

Up in Lanarkshire, Scotland, the Earl of Home's shooting lodge has become a temporary foreign office. The private telephone line to London has been humming continuously since his arrival. And even while he is out shooting on the moors, a shooting brake stands by in readiness to rush him back to the castle in case of emergency.

So while there is no sense of crisis, it is not a case of Nero fiddling while Rome burns, the key people are keeping their eyes closely on the changing moves in the world situation.

By PATRICK NICHOLSON

The residents of Ontario will be compelled on 1st September to step into a quicksand from which there will probably never be release, only deeper and deeper entanglement.

That is considered in private circles here to be the certain effect of a piece of political deception, repeating what is already widely practised on all Canadians, and specifically in this manner also on the residents of seven other provinces.

I refer to what is called incorrectly the Ontario Retail Sales Tax, a true cradle-to-the-grave deal catching the bassinet and the cradle and every piece of tangible personal property between.

This new tax is much wider in its application than a mere sales tax; it is a tax on consumption, on use and even on gifts. Few articles will escape its levy of a nominal 3 per cent. Any article valued at less than 17 cents is not taxable; but anything valued at 17 cents exactly is in fact taxable at approximately 6 per cent, since the cent is indivisible. Food, fuel, draft beer, and clothes for children not larger than size 14x are exempt. Meals consumed on the premises where bought are not taxable if priced at less than $1.51. Gasoline is not subject to this tax, because Ontario already pays a special sales tax of around 50 per cent on gas.

Apart from these, and a few somewhat technical exceptions, the tax will be payable on everything the Ontario buys or receives. This will take the glitter off the Christmas tree and the birthday party, and it adds an argument against trading stamps since the stamp-collector will have to pay tax on the articles received in exchange for them.

If the seller or donor does not collect and remit the tax, it is the responsibility of the recipient to report the transaction and personally pay the tax to the Ontario government. Even if you give away a part-used object, say a child's bicycle or an old oil painting, the recipient must declare and pay the tax due. What does this do to the scavenger in garbage cans?

If you rent a car instead of buying, the tax still will catch you; nor can the tax be avoided by bartering. But the value of an article traded in is to be knocked off the taxable value of another article obtained in exchange.

That shopping trip to the U.S. raises a new problem; the returning Ontarian is expected to declare his purchases and send the appropriate tax to the Ontario government. So is the shopper coming home from another Canadian province, and this might cost him two provincial sales taxes.

Thus, by act of the Ontario Legislature, all Ontarians will willingly be made into honorary unpaid tax-collectors; will be expected to be peeping toms and informers; and undoubtedly will be cast as law-breakers. At the same time an estimated 400,000 big and small businessmen must now donate their time, initiative, and materials estimated at an average of $15 each to collect an average of $375 in tax each year.

All indirect taxes are regarded as somewhat deceitful, since they enable a government to extract money comparatively painlessly. All indirect "nuisance" taxes, which burden the merchant and make the customer mad. Ontarians are now being forced to take a wrong step, which will inevitably be increased by stepping up the tax very soon, yet a direct tax would have been much preferable to all except those who levy it.

The Conservative party, Canadian as well as Ontarian, will reap the fury of the taxpayers, and Premier Frost seems wise in quitting while the quitting remains good. In this somewhat bitter mood I accurately reflect the unhappy prevailing reaction here.

LETTER TO EDITOR

Richter St.

Kelowna

Aug. 23

The Editor:
The Kelowna Daily Courier,
Kelowna

Sir:

According to your editorial of Aug. 23rd re Bylaw 2278 to be held on Aug. 30th, we the taxpayers are going to get it in the neck either way we may vote, "For or Against". If the City of Kelowna made such a huge profit of $228,000 from the electrical system in 1960, why is the need of calling bylaw 2278 if the city already has that amount on hand.

Even with the huge profit the city made, the city did not reduce its electrical charges by 10 per cent. Where did this huge amount go to? It is no wonder the city electrical workers talk of striking. They are aware of the huge profit!

Why does the City of Kelowna want to meddle with purchasing facilities of West Kootenay Power and Light Co., to follow Premier W. A. C. Bennett. I for one will not cast a vote at all.

I'll get stuck either way we vote. Maybe Parky has something up his sleeve besides arm.

(Editor's note: A check of the city voters list shows no "M. McKenzie" on Richter Street" eligible to vote. There is listed "S. A. McKenzie, 2409 Richter", however. If Mr. M. McKenzie has no vote, obviously he "will not cast a vote at all."

EXPANDING MARKETS

Canadian trade with the West Indies Federation and Australia has been expanding during the last eight years. Upper graph details total exports and imports since 1953 with the West Indies Federation. The trade balance has been mostly unfavorable for Canada with imports last year totalling $50,112,000 compared with exports of $39,532,000. The opposite applies in trade with Australia (lower graph). Canadian exports last year jumped 83 per cent to $88,662,000 while imports eased to $35,508,000. (CP Newsmap).

Mother And Two Sons Are United After 22 Years

GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — A have come to Canada and on. Guelph woman has succeeded weekends her home is often a social centre for the new Canadians. Mrs. Rose Saillan's efforts were far from impersonal since it was her own mother-in-law that she managed to bring from Lebanon.

Early in August Mrs. Saillan saw her two sons, Carl Saillan (Rose's husband) of Guelph and Percy Saillan of Toronto after a 34-year separation. Mrs. Papazin, who remarried after her first husband died, was separated from her sons when they were put in a Lebanese orphanage after the Turkish-Armenian war. The boys were brought to Canada in 1927 by the United Church relief service.

Rose Saillan first began trying to bring her mother-in-law to Canada in 1939 but the Second World War intervened. It wasn't until 1956 that she won permission for Mrs. Papazin to come to Canada but even then there were delays.

ENGLISH-BORN Mrs. Saillan has been instrumental in easing the way for many others to move to Canada. When a Scottish friend wrote in 1957 and told of many persons who would like to come to Canada but knew little about the country, Mrs. Saillan wrote to a Scottish newspaper and offered information about Canada to any who were interested. She has since received and replied to 3,000 letters from many parts of the world. Many

Dog Training Classes Start

VERNON (Staff) — The Vernon and District Kennel Club will hold the start of its dog training classes at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 6, in the basement of the Vernon Elementary School. Night classes will be held every Friday from then for 10 weeks. Registration will be on the first night of the dog training class. Trainers will be supplied by the Vernon and District Kennel Club, under Mrs. Jack Head of Armstrong, who will be the trainer, for the first ten weeks.

Luckies End Big Drought To Win Lacrosse Title

VERNON (Staff) — Vernon pretty well indicated the play, minute penalties were levied against Kelowna players. The Luckies also won the Rowcliffe Trophy, awarded by the Okanagan Valley amateur Lacrosse Association, and the minute misconduct to goalie Joe Wise Cup for being league Jimmy MacLeod. Eight two-champions.

But there wasn't much glory in the 11-5 win over a hapless Kelowna O'Keefe team. "It was sick," said Luckies' playing coach Nick Turk. "Kelowna checked pretty hard and we just couldn't get going." The game was, in truth, one of the slowest-paced affairs of a not-very-good season, which was a far cry from the good Armstrong Shamrocks team fold.

Still, it was a great moment for the Luckies as they clustered around the brand-new Allison Hotel Trophy as the game ended.

Most valuable player cup was won by League-leading scorer John Lackner, while big Alex Kashuba won the most-improved-player cup.

SHOWED POWER
During the game team-captain Lackner showed the power that earned him the scoring title by potting five goals and adding two assists.

Bill Roth, playing one of his better offensive games, this season, scored four. Singles were added by Normie Ogasawara and Ken Greenough. Ogasawara and John Kashuba were tops for assists with three apiece.

Scorers for Kelowna, who badly missed high-flying Murray Cloughton, were Doug Greenough, with two, John Ritchie, Hilton and Dick Bartell with singles. Ritchie was tops in assists with three.

Cadets' Parade Winds Up Summer Camp In Vernon

VERNON (Staff) — About 1,400 army cadets will leave Vernon Military Camp today, Tuesday, and Wednesday after a summer-long training camp.

The closing act in this drama of youth-in-action was the wind-up parade and presentation of awards on Saturday morning, reviewed by Camp Commandant Brig. J. W. Bishop.

Brig. Bishop and Mayor Frank Becker, in short addresses, were loud in their praise of what the cadets had done and how they had behaved during their two-month stay in this community.

The commandant said the cadets had made fantastic progress during the trades and national survival training camp. "It (the training) will stay with you during your entire life," he told the assembly on the sunlit parade square.

"It has been of great benefit to you and the country at large."

He reminded the gathering, which included more than 100 parents, civic officials and spectators at the roadside, that the primary purpose of camp was not to train soldiers, but to develop young men and good citizens.

"Of course I hope in a national emergency you will come forward to the army."

He urged the cadets to seriously consider returning next year. "I feel it takes a two-year program to get the most out of the training," he said.

GOOD LOSER

Of the sports results, where many cadets won major trophies, he said: "The important thing is to a good loser."

He singled out for particular praise cadet Lt. Col. Ralph King of Victoria, named best cadet in camp.

"He is a credit to the corps," said the brigadier warmly.

Mayor Becker urged the youths "to continue your studies to higher levels and grasp every opportunity given to better yourselves."

"There has never been at any moment in world history in this great era of space supremacy, more of a challenge to the integrity, stamina, courage and stability of our young men and women who are going out to take responsible positions in society."

And he added: "Our citizens are extremely proud of their association with you each summer and always look forward to your return the following year."

The parade closed with a presentation of awards. By Wednesday night there won't be a cadet in camp, just the headquarters staff who are the unsung heroes of any camp but whose efforts, Brig. Bishop reminded the parade, "are vital to its operation."

YOU GET THE CLEANEST GASOLINE FROM THE HOSE WITH THE RED FILTER!

THIS IS "FINAL-FILTERING" AND ONLY B-A HAS IT CLEAN ACROSS CANADA

Only B-A 88 and Velvet 98 gasolines are "Final-Filtered" right in the hose between the pump and your car... filtered at the last possible moment to assure maximum cleanliness.

Why did B-A add this "Final-Filter"? Gasoline does a lot of travelling before it reaches your car. It is shipped from the refinery to a distribution centre and then tank-trucked to your neighbourhood service station.

During the course of regular comparative and quality tests of all the leading brands, B-A engineers found that gasoline picked up impurities in transit. And because the gasoline is constantly on the move, these impurities (extremely fine solid particles) seldom have the chance to settle out.

Oil companies go to great lengths to keep storage and transit tanks clean, but the tests proved conclusively that impurities are present. You can actually see some of the foreign matter.

Impure gasoline, when passed on to the automobile motor, can cause clogged jets, float control valve leakage, scoring, and fuel pump damage.

The B-A "Final-Filter" gives positive protection against these impurities which can result in inconvenience and costly repairs.

It is imperative that the gasoline you buy today is filtered, at the last possible moment... the moment before it enters your car.

That's why we "Final-Filter" B-A gasoline in the hose at the pump. Ask Mr. B-A to show you the filter and how it works. And next time you buy gasoline... choose B-A 88 or 98. B-A "Final-Filtered" gasolines are positively the cleanest, purest gasolines you can buy.

THE B-A "FINAL-FILTER" This is a cut-away view of the B-A Filter. It is so fine that it removes particles which cannot be seen by the naked eye. This is "Final Filtering".

Valley Exhibit

VERNON (Correspondent) — For the seventh time in eight years of competition the Okanagan Valley entry has won first place in its class of district agricultural exhibits at the Pacific National Exhibition.

The B.C. Fruit Growers' Association, with co-operation of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., Sun-Type Products Ltd., and the B.C. Interior Vegetable Marketing Board, annually sponsors this Okanagan Valley exhibit.

It is designed and decorated to display Okanagan fruit, vegetables and other products by a B.C. Fruit Growers Association committee.

Current members are W. F. Ward, (chairman), of Summerland; W. O. June, Naramata; E. J. Inack, Oliver, and P. G. James, formerly agriculturist for the B.C. Interior Vegetable Marketing Board.

The committee was disappointed that there was no competition this year from other districts of B.C., and that the award of first prize, which includes a cash award and the Dewar Silver Shield, was made by the judges solely on points.

Colavito, Cash Boost Tigers Up AL Ladder

CUBS HOLD SECOND PRACTICE -OPEN MEETING SET TONIGHT

Kelowna Cubs High School Football Club held their second practice Sunday in preparation for the coming football season.

As with the first practice a good turnout made the practice worthwhile and exciting.

The Cubs will now start their regular daily practices, in preparation for their first game September 16. Any boys interested in playing high school football are invited to take part.

There will be a special meeting for all adults interested in high school football 7:30 tonight in the meeting room at Centennial Hall in the Kelowna Arena.

At the meeting there will be a discussion of the coming year's plans, and all persons interested in coaching or supporting the game are asked to turn out.

Detroit Tiger fans are wondering why there's so much fuss over Roger Maris and Mickey Vernon in the American League.

They figure they have a slugging pair just as devastating as the New York Yankees' M and M boys.

"We call them the C and C boys," said a happy Tiger fan, lower. "That's Norm Cash and Rocky Colavito."

There is no question Cash and Colavito have been just as essential to the Tigers as Maris and Mantle have been to the Yankees. They collaborated Sunday to lead the Tigers to a 7-4 and 10-1 doubleheader sweep over Washington Senators, moving the Tigers to within two games of the league-leading Yankees.

FORD WINS 22ND

Detroit gained half a game on the Yankees, who nipped Kansas City Athletics 8-7 for Whitey Ford's 22nd victory of the season. Maris and Mantle went homerless and hitless. Colavito smashed four home runs, three in the second game, and batted in seven runs. Cash got three hits, including a double and triple, to boost his league-leading average to .365.

Chicago White Sox strengthened their hold on fourth place by defeating Cleveland Indians 10-6 and 9-3. Baltimore's third-place Orioles blanked Minnesota Twins 3-0 behind the two-hit pitching of Milt Pappas while Los Angeles Angels defeated Boston Red Sox 8-3.

Maris picked up home run No. 51 Saturday as the Yankees beat Kansas City 5-1. Los Angeles defeated Boston 5-3, Chicago picked up a 10-5 decision over Cleveland and Baltimore beat Minnesota 7-4.

Maris' blast came in the sixth inning after a homer by Tony Kubek. Both were hit off Kansas City starter Jerry Walker. Mantle got two singles but no home runs to add to his 46 total. Maris is nine games ahead of Babe Ruth's pace of 1927 when the Yankee Bambino belted a record 60 home runs.

Colavito's four homers Sunday gave him a season's total of 38 and a total of 119 runs batted in, second to Maris' 120. Colavito and Cash own 69 home runs to 97 for Maris and Mantle and 226 runs batted in to the Yankee duo's 232. Cash, whose 31 homers and 107 runs batted in are the lowest of the foursome, is far ahead of the other three in batting percentage.

quarter and 8-4 at half time.

Kelowna Juniors Take Okanagan Championship

Kelowna Juniors handed Merritt a convincing 12-6 defeat Sunday to take the Okanagan Junior baseball League championship.

The Orchard City squad, which won the first game in a resounding finish at Elks Stadium last Sunday, showed perfect form in turning back the hometowners.

They caught hold of 12 hits to Merritt's six and committed only two errors across the nine innings.

Kelowna had little trouble in turning back the Merritt club. They racked up four runs in the fourth innings and broke loose in the ninth with seven more.

Errors and lack of hits proved the Merritt team's downfall as they booted the ball numerous times in the final frame.

Bob Hatanaka held Merritt down with four hits in the first five innings and reliever Bruce Bennett capped the victory off with a two-hit performance in the remaining four frames.

Club 13 Nabs Lead In Softball Finals

Club 13 downed the favored Rutland Rovers 7-4 Sunday in the second game of the Kelowna and District Softball League finals.

The same two teams tied in the opening game of the series Thursday night. They met again at 6:30 tonight at Rutland.

Wally Sehn garnered the victory on Club's mound while Joe Ostress took the loss.

A. Rieger and R. Morlot sparked the Kelowna team's attack with two hits in three trips to the plate.

Ostress proved big gun of the evening with a nice three-for-four record at bat.

Rutland connected for 12 hits while committing four errors. Club 13 got nine hits and only two errors.

Labatts Grab Both Ends Of Exhibition Series

Kelowna Labatts came out with a clean slate Sunday after capturing both ends of a twin bill exhibition series with Yakima Silders.

The Labatts, who see their next action Saturday in the B.C. championships at Victoria, dumped the visitors 6-5 in the opener Saturday and won out by a narrow 7-6 tally Sunday.

Les Schaefer went the distance Saturday night in hurling a nine-hitter while his teammates connected for six hits.

Gord Hunter, picked up from Pentiction for the B.C. series, led the Kelowna team with a home run and a single in five times at bat.

Labatts racked up three runs in the third and three more in the sixth while Yakima tallied three in the fifth and one in each of the eighth and ninth frames.

In Sunday's action, Labatts had to explode with five runs in the ninth inning to come from behind for their victory.

Bill Martino and Bud Englesby handled pitching chores in the Sunday fixture. For Yakima it was Phillips and McDonald.

ECM Talks Cn British Application

PARIS (Reuters) — The six founder members of the European Common Market are preparing for the negotiations expected to begin on October—on Britain's entry into their international trading bloc.

The British request for membership generally has been welcomed, but in the capitals of the six — France, Germany, Italy, Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg — fears have been expressed that Britain, because of its special Commonwealth obligations, might distort the grouping and slow down the pace of integration.

In Paris, the French government officially has welcomed the British decision.

Fitting agriculture into the picture, and safeguarding certain of Britain's Commonwealth trade interests, are expected to be among the difficulties to be solved, but France also has strong farming interests to safeguard.

DISAGREE ON FARMING

The six themselves so far have not reached agreement on the agricultural clauses of the Common Market's Rome Treaty.

In Bonn, the West German government has welcomed the British decision to seek membership in the market as both politically and economically desirable.

Politically, West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and other government leaders are acutely aware of their frontier with the Communist bloc and of the need for European unity in the face of Russian pressure.

Economics Minister Ludwig Erhard sees the extension of the market to include other European countries as being in Germany's economic interests.

Tshombe Says 'I Won't Talk Under Threat'

ELISABETHVILLE (Reuters) President Moise Tshombe of Katanga says he is "ready to die" rather than negotiate with the central Congolese government "while threatened by soldiers."

Tshombe, looking tired and ill, made his statement at a press conference Saturday after the Katangan regime said it had rejected a virtual United Nations ultimatum for Tshombe to go immediately to the central government capital of Leopoldville.

Katanga's interior minister, Godefroid Munongo, told reporters that Conor O'Brien, UN chief in Katanga, delivered the ultimatum and gave Tshombe 30 minutes in which to decide whether to go to Leopoldville.

A Katangan communique said Tshombe was told that unless he went to Leopoldville to negotiate with Premier Cyrille Adoula the central government would call on UN troops to "liquidate" Katanga.

FORCE DISARMAMENT

Local UN officials said the UN is preparing a two-phase operation to force the disarming of the 13,000-man Katanga military force which is officered by 250 whites.

Meanwhile, Albert de Coster, Belgian editor and publisher of the newspaper Echo du Katanga, who has lived in the Katanga region for 44 years, said the UN today gave him 48 hours to leave the country.

He said a UN officer handed him a letter saying the expulsion was ordered under a Feb. 21 UN Security Council resolution calling for the withdrawal of foreign advisers from Katanga.

IN STYLE

LONDON (CP)—Ten tuxedoed students from Cambridge University departed for a 7,000-mile trek into the Libyan desert. Why the formal dress? "To take part of the Cambridge way of life into the desert," explained leader Michael Scott.

SOLID COINS

LONDON (CP)—A decision on whether Britain will adopt the decimal coinage system may be made before the end of the year, but the treasury already has turned down an idea of plastic coins of varying colors. A spokesman said the British would not like the introduction of "aesthetic tiddlywinks."

On long trips or short hauls, Super Shell's energy-packed ingredient—Platformate—helps to increase mileage and give top performance.

EXTRA MILEAGE:

This 2½-mile stretch shows the extra mileage you can get in every 100 miles you drive—from just one of Super Shell's 9 ingredients for top performance.

A remarkable ingredient called Platformate increases the mileage you get from today's Super Shell.

Recent tests show that one cupful of Super Shell with Platformate takes a car 96 feet farther than the same amount of a non-Platformate gasoline. This works out to 2½ bonus miles for every hundred. Here are the facts.

The one cupful test.

SUPER SHELL, with Platformate, was accurately measured into the fuel system of a conventional car. The car was started, accelerated and held at a constant 30 miles per hour until it ran out of gasoline.

Then, the same amount of gasoline without Platformate was poured in—and the test was run again. Same car—same driver—same test road.

In repeated tests, Shell engineers found that Super Shell took the car an average of 96 feet farther per cupful.

That may not sound like much. But in 100 miles of driving, that 96 feet turns into 2½ extra miles. NOTE: Platformate gets its strange name from the platinum re-forming process which Shell scientists use in making it.

High pressures and temperatures up to 1000 degrees literally tear petroleum apart and then reform it into super-energy components which release 7 per cent more energy than the finest hundred-octane aviation gasoline.

You now know how one of Super Shell's nine ingredients helps to give your car top performance. Each of the others does an equally important job. Take a few minutes now to read what they are and what they do.

Ingredient #2 is TCP for power, mileage and longer plug life.

Super Shell now contains an even better version of this famous additive; it was originally developed for use in aviation gasoline.

TCP* additive can help restore power lost to combustion deposits: give up to 17 extra miles per tankful; and can make plugs last up to twice as long.

TCP does this by neutralizing certain harmful effects of combustion deposits. It is scientifically formulated to alter those deposits which are a major cause of power loss.

Shell scientist pours Super Shell, with Platformate, directly into fuel system of convertible for mileage test. Car was then driven until it ran out of gas. Same procedure was followed with non-Platformate gasoline. Full report of test starts on the left.

Ingredient #3 is "cat-cracked" gasoline for power with a purr.

This is petroleum that has actually cracked under 900-degree heat and catalytic action. Its heavier molecules have been shattered into livelier, lighter ones.

The result is a super-octane ingredient that makes your engine purr with power the moment you put your foot down.

NOTE: "Cat-cracking" refers to the use of a catalyst—the mysterious substance that can alter molecules without changing itself.

Ingredient #4 is heavy alkanes—for knock-free power at all speeds.

Some gasolines perform well enough when you're driving slowly, but cause knock and loss of power at higher speeds.

Super Shell behaves itself at all speeds. It contains heavy alkanes, a special high-octane ingredient that gives top performance whether you're in slow traffic, or accelerating or cruising on a super-highway.

Ingredient #5 is anti-knock mix for extra resistance to knocks.

You might think that two high-octane ingredients are enough for knock-free performance.

But Shell's scientists insist on adding a special anti-knock mix which is so effective that one teaspoon per gallon can boost anti-knock rating by five points.

This mix has the tricky job of regulating combustion so that Super Shell gives each piston a firm, even push—rather than a sharp blow which would cause a knock.

Ingredient #6 is butane for quick starts.

Butane is noted for quick starts in winter. But Shell's refining experts add a certain amount in summer too. The reason: volatile butane has anti-knock value at high temperatures. So this winter-start ingredient has summer benefits, too. It helps to smooth out your car's performance both summer and winter.

Ingredient #7 is mixed pentanes for fast warm-ups.

Mixed pentanes are made by tearing gasoline apart, much as you split kindling to start a log fire.

In this case, the "logs" are petroleum's heavier hydrocarbons. A special process transforms their molecules from slow-burning "logs" into the quicker-firing "kindling."

NET RESULT: Fast warm-up and top performance in a hurry.

Ingredient #8 is an "anti-icer" to check stalling when temperatures drop.

Super Shell's formula is adjusted as often as eight times a year to beat the weather. For example, whenever the temperature is likely to be less than forty-five degrees, a carburetor anti-icer is added. Why add anti-icer at forty-five degrees? Because, even then, frost can form in your carburetor just as it does in your refrigerator. It can choke your engine dead.

Ingredient #9 is a gum preventive to keep carburetors clean inside.

Even the purest gasoline can form gum when stored. This can clog carburetors and foul automatic chokes. But, with Super Shell, you needn't worry. A special gum preventive does the trick.

It acts like a policeman controlling a mob. Regulates unstable elements to help keep them from clotting. Hence no gum problem.

Test Super Shell for yourself.

Try Super Shell next time you fill up. You'll soon feel and hear a difference in the way your engine runs.

That difference is top performance.
